

Ed-Co Alumni
Billi Emerson Class of 2003
By: Mika McCool

Billi Emerson was a part of Ed-Co's Class of 2003. She is currently the business owner of a childcare center. After high school, Billi went to work at a childcare center and quickly learned that she wanted to stay local. "I love the small town, it just makes you feel safer." Working at the childcare center for 16 years taught her that she wanted to become her own boss and do things her own way, thus prompting her to own her own childcare center. Billi currently resides in Manchester with her husband and three children. During her years at Ed-Co, Billi's favorite part continued to be how the teachers were amazing and always willing to help students; it felt like family to her. When asked for advice to give to students she stated, "Believe in yourself even if you go to little old Ed-Co, you still have the big world out there and can go and do anything yet." This Viking is going places!
