Jenny Lange - Class of 2001

Written by Addy Kirby

Jenny (Thein) Lange can be found in the classroom, teaching math, at the place she graduated from, Ed-Co High School. She belongs to the class of 2001. After high school, she attended Clarke College in Dubuque to get her teaching license. Being that she still resides here, when asked why she commented, "I wasn't going to stay. Ed-Co was the first teaching job I got. I was going to teach 2-4 years and leave. I remembered how much I loved the school and communities and decided to stay." Jenny has gotten where she is today because "I knew what I wanted to do since I was in high school. My own math teachers encouraged me to follow that path." When asked what advice she would give she said, "Be kind and give grace. Since becoming a teacher I know so many more people's stories and they aren't always happy ones. You don't know people's full stories so forgive and be kind." This Viking left and returned, she still roams the halls of Ed-Co every day.
