

Ed-Co Alumni
Jim Hauschild
Written by Addy Kirby

Now a Chief of Police, Jim Hauschild graduated in the class of 1983. After high school, he worked on farms and in factories before starting a career in law enforcement in 1994. In 2007, he went back to school to get a degree in business administration to advance his career. Jim currently resides in Manchester and believes there is no better place to live, work, or raise a family than in Northeast Iowa. His favorite part about Ed-Co was the small class size and knowing everyone in his class. Jim's advice to current students and graduates is to, "Be open to changing career paths as your life changes. Never quit and always do your best." Jim is using Viking values every day. He is a Viking for Life!
