Written by Addy Kirby

Leah Campbell graduated in the class of 2000. Following high school, she attended Luther College to attain her Bachelor's degree in biology and mathematics. She studied abroad during her junior year of college in Nottingham, England. After that, she attended graduate school to attain her PhD in molecular, cellular, and developmental biology from Yale University. Today, she is a Senior Research Scientist and resides in South Bend, Indiana. Leah stated, "Mr. Millis was very influential in fostering my interest and excitement in biology." When asked what advice she would give to current high school graduates she said, "Be kind and keep an open mind. Things will not go exactly as planned or exactly as you picture them, and that is okay. You will have your own unique story that will allow you to bring unique perspectives to the table." Leah is doing things the Viking way. She was and always will be a Viking!
